

Leverett Graduate Student Merit Award for Outstanding Achievement in Dental Public Health for Master and Doctoral Degree Students in Dental Public Health and Dental Public Health Residents

AAPHD is proud to recognize graduate students and residents in public health dentistry through the Leverett Graduate Student Merit Award. Each School of Public Health, School of Dentistry with a Graduate Program in Dental Public Health, and Agency with a Dental Public Health Residency Program is invited to submit a maximum of two (2) separate nominations for this award.

The nominee(s) may be currently within their program or a recent graduate within one year of graduation and must have completed their project prior to graduation from their respective programs. The nominee(s) whose projects were completed during their fifth academic year of a Predoctoral dental program will be judged as a Master's degree graduate project. The nominee(s) whose projects were completed during their doctoral degree program will be judged separately using criteria appropriate for evaluation of doctoral projects.

Each project should have a community and/or research basis with dental public health significance.

Project components and submission requirements can be found below. Abstracts to be considered for the AAPHD Student Merit Award program should not be submitted a second time for the General Poster or Oral Presentation Sessions.

Please read through these instructions carefully as there are some changes to past year's announcements. If there are any questions concerning this announcement, please contact info@aaphd.org.
